VOLUME V

PUBLISHED BY THE CLASS OF 1925 OF
FLORA MACDONALD COLLEGE
Red Springs, North Carolina

FOREWORD

*N*OW as we stand on the threshold of a new career, we feel a certain longing to cling to this school life which has been for long so important to us. And as years pass we know we shall often look back wistfully to the old familiar portals, and remember phases of our life there. And so we gather together these pages, that they may enable us to see more vividly in our memory our old companions, our college home, our pleasures and struggles.

To you who look upon our work we make this plea: Be not critical, or ridiculing in your judgment; but be sympathetic and understanding, and so catch the spirit of which this book is the result.

MOTHER MACHREE

*There's a spot in my heart that no other may own,
There's a depth to my soul never sounded or known.
There's a place in my memory, my life that you fill,
No other can take it, no one ever will.*

*Every sorrow or care in the dear days gone by
Was made bright by the light of the smile in your eye.
Like a candle that's set in a window at night
Your fond love has cheered me, and guided me right.*

*Sure, I love the dear silver that shines in your hair,
And the brow that's all furrowed and wrinkled with care.
I kiss the dear fingers so toilworn for me;
Oh, God bless you and keep you, Mother Muchree!*

For long a loved member of our Faculty

Died November 29, 1924

*"Blessed are the pure in heart,
for they shall see God."*

A TOAST

Fair is the name of you,
Lovely the face of you.
Over the sea of years
Reach we our hands to you,
Asking your blessing.

Mists of the drifting years
Almost would cover you;
Could we, forgetting you,
Dream of true loyalty
Or of true courage?
No! We drink now to you,
All glasses high to you;
Long and right heartily
Drink to your memory,
Flora Macdonald!

"In soul sincere, in action faithful, in honor clear."

Perseverance and loyalty compounded with helpfulness and attractive qualities form a sure recipe for a pleasing personality fine enough to suit "placid pleasure." All this and more we find in Nelle. She enters into athletics with a vim, especially as our "jumping center." She stands tip-top in her class work and just as she stands tip-top there so she does in the heart of each member of '25. We love her. If you want a good all 'round girl just find "Our Nelle."

"Maid of Greenville, ere we part Give, oh, give me back my heart!"

Light of step and big of heart,
Mistress Alice has tripped her way into the hearts of us all. Underneath that fluff of golden curls lies vast knowledge of domestic value— and otherwise. Yes! a loyal "Flossy Macer" she has always been, but we fear Davidson may now claim some of that interest. True gold she is, and love her—'deed we do!

*"Whatever song the maiden sang
The music in my heart I bore
Long after it was heard no more."*

Just because Amanda is of a quiet nature is no reflection on her personality, for that voice of hers, applauded at so many recitals, gives evidence of a sweet, true, and charming disposition, which along with her musical talents is a valuable treasure. Her training in her chosen profession combined with her other abilities give us a picture of an educated, capable young woman.

*"Impulsive, earnest, quick to act
And make her generous thought a fact."*

Ambition is one of the ruling centers of Graces' life. However, she is not one of those persons who are ruled by ambition alone, or whose high endeavors stop with this as a goal. Things she has already accomplished witness to her unusual ability, and the attainments she has reached show her to be a person of great determination. She has proved her efficiency in her "Y" work, business ability, athletics, and class work. These characteristics blended with loyalty, cheerfulness, and pep identify her as a Grace which can not be duplicated.

*"In framing an artist, art hath thus decreed—
To make some good, but others to exceed."*

Helena, more familiarly known as "Butlena," is a type for you. She has that indefinable thing called charm and is the kind of a girl one can depend on at all times. "She's not too bad—she's not too good—she's just right"—that's "Butlena." For proof of her artistic ability just consult the annuals during her four years at F. M. C. "Excuse me please, Senora," is heard very frequently because "Butlena" does love her morning sleep. To enumerate the many qualities that go to make up her attractive personality would take too long, but in closing let us say you'll never find another "Butlena."

MILDRED DeLORME, B. S.

SUMTER, S. C.

1922-23—Y. W. C. A. Committee; Recorder of Points; Class Hockey Team; Class Hockey Manager; Wearer of "M."

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Committee; Assistant Business Manager of WHITE HEATHER; Vice-President Palmetto Club; Class Hockey Team; Class Hockey Manager; Wearer of Star; Class Basket-ball Team; Fire Squad; Executive Committee of E. X. Society.

1924-25—Y. W. C. A. Committee; Fire Chief; President Palmetto Club; Class Hockey Team; Class Hockey Manager; Wearer of Star; Class Basket-ball Team; Athletic Committee.

"Full of laughter, full of pep, Never quiet—that's her rep."

Who would have seen in the quiet slip of the girl of '20 the poised individual, the fascinating young woman of '25? Mildred is a girl whom association endears to one. An incorrigible tease is she—relishes a joke, and is an excellent companion in work or play. Being for three years manager of her class hockey team and winner of several athletic honors shows her abilities along this line. We may hear of her as a national champion some day—or her domestic attainments may form her a destiny of another character.

MARGARET DOWDLE, B. S.

FRANKLIN, N. C.

1921-22—Y. W. C. A. Committee.

Mission Study Leader.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Prayer Band Leader.

1924-25—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Prayer Band Leader.

*"Far may we search before we find
A heart so gentle and so kind."*

During the four years Margaret has spent at F. M. C. she may be said to "have kept the noiseless tenor of her way." She is a girl who is quiet, unobtrusive—going about her daily tasks, attending to her own affairs, disturbing no one. She has a dry humor about her which she saves for special occasions. Those who know her best appreciate her splendid qualities, and realize that Margaret's college life has meant much to her, which she will, in her turn, give to the world.

ANNABEL FLOYD, A. B.

TABOR, N. C.

1922-23—Y. W. C. A. Committee.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Choral Association; Class Basketball Team.

1924-25—Prayer Band Leader;
Chaplain of Zetesian Society; Undergraduate Representative of Y. W.
C. A.; Class Basket-ball Team;
Choral Association.

*"She is gentle, she is shy,
But she has mischief in her eye."*

Who would think that little girl with her laughing brown eyes and bobbed hair was a "dignified" Senior?
But that's the delightful part about Annabel—she is brimful of fun—
and a splendid sport when 'tis time
for play—but on more serious occasions we see the graver side of her nature—her willingness to work,
good judgment, and power of concentration. She is a valuable member of '25.

AVIS FOUNTAIN, B. S.

TARBORO, N. C.

1921-22—Y. W. C. A. Committee; Prayer Band Leader; Mission Study Class Leader; Pine and Thistle Staff; Recorder of Points.

1922-23—Secretary Y. W. C. A.; WHITE HEATHER Staff; Delegate to Student Volunteer Conference.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Cabinet; WHITE HEATHER Staff; Commencement Marshal.

1924-25—President Zetesian Literary Society; Student Council; Y. W. C. A. Committee.

A girl, a true friend once you her
know,
True of the truest wherever you go
You will not be able another to find
Who could take her place in my mind.

Of statue, only five feet and two,
And a disposition possessed by few;
Hazel eyes and hair of brown,
A firm chin, but face slightly round.

The sixth year this happens to be
That she has been at F. M. C.
Honors high each year she has won,
Of each and all can be said, "Well
done."

Many such are hard to find
Who have ability and are yet kind.
When once a friend as staid as a mountain,
This girl is no other than Avis
Fountain.

VIRGINIA FRANK, B. M.

CHARLESTON, S. C.

E. X.

1921-22—Y. W. C. A. Committee; Prayer Band Leader; White Heather Staff; College Cheer Leader; Fire Squad; Treasurer Palmetto Club; Dramatic Club; Orchestra; Class Cheer Leader; Vice-President Athletic Association; Class Basket-ball Manager; Tennis Champion Singles and Doubles.

1922-23—Class Cheer Leader; Class Basket-ball Manager; Tennis Champion Singles and Doubles; Wearer of "M" and Stars.

1923-24—Mission Study Leader; Critic E. X. Society; Fire Chief; President Glee Club; Vice-President Conservatory; Athletic Reporter; Orchestra; Class Hockey Team; Class Basket-ball Manager; Class Cheer Leader; College Cheer Leader; Tennis Champion Singles and Doubles; Wearer of Stars; Wearer of White "M."

1924-25—President Athletic Association; Mission Study Leader; Y. W. C. A. Committee; Class Cheer Leader; College Cheer Leader; Varsity Hockey Team; Class Basket-ball Manager; Wearer of Stars.

*"A clever girl, a witty girl,
A girl so full of fun;
A brainy girl, a carefree girl,
A thousand girls in one."*

Loyal in friendship, ready to serve, capable, dependable, full of "pep" and a born leader—that's "Frank." So versatile is she (see statistics), that very few college activities have escaped her, and she does her best with a light heart and a sunny smile. "Frank" could make a fortune playing the violin, but she also excels in dramatics and is a star athlete. We wonder sometimes which she will choose for a profession. Anyway, the Class of '25 knows she will make good whatever she does, and she will long be remembered by her many friends at F. M. C.

GRACE GOODMAN, B. M.

RED SPRINGS, N. C.

E. X.

1921-22—Prayer Band Leader; Y. W. C. A. Committee; College Orchestra.

1922-23—Class Treasurer; President of Hoke County Club; Prayer Band Leader; Y. W. C. A. Committee; Class Hockey Team; Class Basket-ball Team; College Orchestra; Fire Squad.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Cabinet; President of El Club Espanol; Pine and Thistle Staff; College Orchestra; Class Hockey Team; Fire Squad; Wearer of "M"; Commencement Marshal.

1924-25—Class Hockey Team; College Orchestra; Student Council; Budget Fund Committee; President Epsilon Chi Society.

*"Of all the sunbeams that did ever shine
The very sweetest has to thee been given."*

Grace is a girl whom many honors have left with the same sweet, unaffected disposition as when first we knew her. She is a "woman of parts"—one of the most important figures in the conservatory, an athlete of renown among us, a scholar in her class work, but most of all a good all 'round sport, with all the qualities of a noble womanhood and, well, no amount of singing her praises do her justice—you just have to know Grace herself.

MARGARET HANSEL, A. B.

MEBANE, N. C.

E. X.

1921-22—Leader of Mission Study Class; Y. W. C. A. Committee.

1922-23—Secretary of Sophomore Class; Leader of Mission Study Class; Y. W. C. A. Committee; Delegate to Student Volunteer Conference.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Cabinet; Chaplain Epsilon Chi Society; Delegate to Blue Ridge.

1924-25—President Y. W. C. A.; Member Student Council.

"The thing that goes the farthest toward making life worth while, That costs the least and does the most, is just a pleasant smile."

For tact, character, and ability here's the girl. We can truly say we are glad Margaret was one of us, for her pleasant manner, her beaming smile, and her warm friendship have meant a whole lot to us. Some wonder why she "stands in" with everybody, but those who know her intimately can easily see why this is.

We wonder what F. M. C. will do next year without Margaret as its Y. W. president, for she is a leader that's sincere.

Wherever she goes we wish her great success and we feel sure that that school which gets her next year as a kindergarten teacher will be lucky.

WILLIE A. HENDERSON, A. B.

LITTLE ROCK, S. C.

E. X.

1921-22—Y. W. C. A. Committee.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Committee.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Sophomore Hockey Team; Delegate to Student Volunteer Conference.

1924-25—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Senior Hockey Team; Prayer Band
Leader; President of Student Volunteer Band.

"A little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men."

But Willie Alma is not all fun. Underneath the surface there is the true serious-minded side of her character. She is always the same—loyal, faithful, and firm—in other words, a good friend. She possesses the perseverance and persistence which enable her to accomplish whatever she attempts to do. Truly, what other traits could one hope to find together—a strong will, an appealing sense of humor, and true friendliness? Nothing other than success can be in store for so fine a character.

MARY KATE HORTON, A. B.

CLIO, S. C.

E. X.

1921-22—Y. W. C. A. Committee.

1922-23—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Class Basket-ball Team.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Class Basket-ball Manager.

1924-25—Class Hockey Team;
Class Basket-ball Team.

*"There is a kind of character in her life
That to the observer doth her history fully unfold."*

This describes Mary Kate—a quiet unassuming girl full of latent power. She is studious and resourceful. It was, indeed, a lucky day for '25 when she joined us last fall, in more ways than one—especially when we met our opponents on the athletic field.

M. LUCILLE JOHNSON, B. L.

CLAYTON, N. C.

Z.

1921-22—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Dramatic Club.

1922-23—Prayer Band Leader;
Dramatic Club; Y. W. C. A. Committee; College Orchestra.

1923-24—Pine and Thistle Staff;
Y. W. C. A. Committee; Property
Manager of Dramatic Club; College Orchestra.

1924-25—Pine and Thistle Staff;
Senior Scribbler; Class Historian;
Public Debater; Y. W. C. A. Committee; Sub-Hockey Team.

*"She has such a face and such a mien
As to be loved is only to be seen."*

Lucille is just one whose personality invites friendship and admiration.
No wonder she stands in favor with teachers and classmates! She is generous too, for she'd give credit to her classmates if she passed a test—
and her teacher if she flunked one.
Not to be unremarked though, is her poetic talent. Her poems are products of inspiration—not "perspiration." We think with Addison:
"There are poets which have no
monuments—and monuments which have no poets."

ORA JONES, B. S.

LILESVILLE, N. C.

E. X.

1922-23—Fire Squad.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Vice-President Athletic Association;
Class Hockey Team; Fire Squad.

1924-25—Y. W. C. A. Committee.

*"Voyager upon life's sea,—
To yourself be true,
And what'er your lot may be Paddle your own canoe."*

When it comes to sewing and cooking, Ora is right there. She is a capable, dependable, and just all good sport—and member of the Class of '25.

Ora is always chairman of the "Independence Committee." If you want to know the truth about yourself or any one else, just ask "Brother." She believes in frankness.

MARY LOVE, B. S.

DE FUNIAK SPRINGS, FLA.

E. X.

1921-22—Y. W. C. A. Committee.

1922-23—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Mission Study Class Leader; Pine
and Thistle Staff.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Mission Study Class Leader; Prayer
Band Leader.

1924-25—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Vice-President of Class.

"If you would be loved, love and be lovable."

"Lovely" has been with '25 all the four college years and never yet has she been heard to complain. Always smiling, cheerful, happy, so optimistic is she. As the smallest in the class she certainly does not occupy the smallest place in the hearts of the Seniors. In fact, "Lovely" is about the most valuable member of our class. In loyalty and pep she is never lacking, and a splendid vice-president she makes. You know "precious things come in small packages."

MARY McBRYDE, B. S.

RAEFORD, N. C.

Z.

1921-22—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Choral Association.

1922-23—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Choral Association; Prayer Band
Leader.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Choral Association; Prayer Band
Leader; Secretary of Class; Secretary Zetesian Society; Commencement Marshal.

1924-25—Y. W. C. A. Cabinet;
Choral Association; Second Vice-President of Zetesian Society; Assistant Business Manager of Senior Tea Room.

*"Love her? Well I guess I do;
Love her mighty fond and true
Love her better every day
Dunno why—it's just her way."*

Little Mary? Yes, she is little, but the place she holds among us is so big that even "Fatty" couldn't fill it. There are few things Mary can not do. In cooking and sewing she is hard to surpass. Whatever Mary attempts we know will be done in the very best way possible. Her dainty, neat appearance and her attractive, winsome manner fill us all with envy and have won for her the chief place in somebody's heart. All these things are admirable, but the reason we love her is because—well, she's just "Little Mary."

LOUISE McCALLUM, B. M.

MAXTON, N. C.

E. X.

1921-22—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Choral Association.

1922-23—Vice - President Robeson
County Club; Prayer Band Leader;
Y. W. C. A. Committee; Choral Association.

1923-24—Treasurer of Class; Glee
Club Property Manager; Y. W. C. A.
Committee; Choral Association; El Club Espanol.

1924-25—President of Conservatory;
Y. W. C. A. Committee; President of Omega Kappa Sigma; Choral Association; WHITE HEATHER Staff; Y.
W. C. A. Cabinet; Champion Hockey
Team; Varsity Hockey Team;
Wearer of "M."

*"The sweet low cadence of her voice was like
The chime of golden bells."*

If you meet a girl coming up the hall with a song on her lips, a smile
on her face, and a cheery "Howdy, girls"—that's our Louise. Her sunshiny nature is a sure cure for the dumps. If she sings, you love her strong, sweet voice with its golden notes. If you watch her smash a hockey ball, you admire her skill.
Yes, Louise is a friend of all including Mr. Cupid, judging from the number of dates she has. An artist, good sport, and true-blue friend—
pretty good combination, is it not?
But the gods as well as we, love
Louise.

VIRGINIA McCUTCHEN

ST. CHARLES, S. C.

E. X.

1921-22—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Secretary Athletic Association; Tennis Champion Doubles.

1922-23—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Tennis Champion Doubles.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Cabinet;
WHITE HEATHER Staff, Tennis
Champion Doubles.

1924-25—Y. W. C. A. Cabinet.

"Faithfulness and sincerity first of all."

This is Virginia through and and through. But even there we cannot stop for by her helpfulness, good disposition, and cheerful manner we have all come to know her. She is always ready and willing to do her best, whether in the Y. W. C. A. or a good game of tennis.

A true friend to everybody, a sport
under all circumstances, and a representative of the best things of life—
that is why we love her.

FLORABEL MCGOOGAN, B. S.

ST. PAULS, N. C.

E. X.

1921-22—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Choral Association.

1922-23—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Choral Association.

1923-24—Y. W. C. A. Committee;
Prayer Band Leader; Class Hockey
Team; Choral Association; Public
Debater; Wearer of "M."

1924-25—Prayer Band Leader; Y.
W. C. A. Committee; Secretary Senior Class; Choral Association; Class
Hockey Team; Secretary Epsilon
Chi Society.

*"A siren's note
To draw the careless hearer."*

You don't often see a person who is a combination of athlete and artist. But that's just what Florabel is. For who of us has not envied and rejoiced when some play of hers has saved the day for '25? And who, hearing her sing, could deny that she is an artist? She has many accomplishments, though she is by no means a "jack of all trades."

Since last fall we have noticed alarming symptoms developing in Florabel—symptoms familiar but hard to understand. We fear that the only cure will be a visit from the "Doc." But it's hard to judge. Whatever happens we wish her luck always.

smiling—never in a bad humor.
Wonder if she knows how we all

"A small spark makes a big fire."

We have found that "Couch" is not just an ordinary girl, but we recognize real superiority in her nature. This year she has made us envious of her business ability. No one but "Couch" could have brought the WHITE HEATHER "over the top" with such a triumph. Though she is small in stature, she is simply great when it comes to doing things, and she is certainly the ministering angel to those in trouble. She knows so well how to comfort her friends, and what an art! "Couch" will keep faith with that which her mind tells her is true, though she loses a friend and place by it.

Don't ever think we don't respect her voiced opinions when she expresses them at class meetings. A peach of a girl, and admired by every one of her classmates, bar none! And a heart of gold is hers.

The first thing we think about when Chris is mentioned is her skill on the athletic field. She's had a big part in winning the laurels that have come to '25. In basket-ball and hockey she's right there, and putting up an excellent game.

Chris doesn't advertise her ability and attainments, being a person of quiet reserve, but she can surely do things when she wills. Besides these good qualities she's mighty attractive looking. We shouldn't wonder if some man asks her to preside over his home ere long.

"In every age, we shall find a true woman."

Bess belongs to that class which knows both the pleasures and miseries of day student life. For half her college days she was a day pupil. Though if she had only been with us a week, we would realize her great worth. She seems to be one of our most demure Seniors, but Bess is "not too serious, not too gay, but a rare good sport." If its sewing or cooking, Bess is head man, and she knows the details too—ask Miss Lyle. Bess is a fine lassie, she is. And nobody could take her place.

She is always sympathetic and kind; her gentleness of manner makes us love her. There has never lived one who is nobler and when you have once gained her friendship, she will stand by you forever. She is seldom angry, forgives easily, and has won the hearts of all. In appreciation of her worth the class has made her editor-in-chief of the annual where she has proved her capability.

Miriam delights in surprising us. For three years she dwelt unostentatiously among us, faithfully going about her duties, when lo! a literary genius she developed, and won the Vanderbilt short story prize. Again, while we thought that she—scholar, writer, dramatist, and poet—scorned the frolics and frivolities of athletics, behold! in her Senior year she made the champion hockey team. With qualities of loyalty, modesty, cheerfulness, and her undeniable talent, we look to see Miriam at the top. May life's horn of plenty be poured lavishly upon her.

Chronicles of Twenty-Five

OW it came to pass in the year one thousand, nine hundred and twenty-one, that there gathered together in the autumn time a band of Freshmen, seeking diligently the door of knowledge. And when they came hither to Flora Macdonald, there were shouts of great joy, for they found favor in her sight. These were called Twenty-five, after the year of their graduation.

This was a place of mingled study and merry-making, and a dangerous place withal for those afraid of toil. But Twenty-five did strive earnestly, and performed her duties with a zeal that was becoming unto her. Soon she took council together and elected one Johnnie Tomasson for her first president, but she was called home to return no more. Then was chosen a certain Grace Moody unto whom was given the leadership for the entire year. She ruled wisely and well. Twenty-five took with patience and without mumbling, the administration of "Sophomorine," and she faced the monsters of Math and English with a stout heart.

But soon her work was interrupted by a serious plague called diphtheria, and the classes and their several members separated one from the other, and returned to their homes until Christmas. After having tarried there a short season, they returned for the spring term. It was custom at this place for the classes to contest one with the other, to find the most high in basket-ball. And Twenty-five won in contest above all the classes in school.

Soon it happened that Commencement came, and the work for the session was complete. They went their ways rejoicing.

When vacation time had come to an end, Twenty-five arose and came to her alma mater, abounding in grace and wisdom. This was in the reign of a certain Grace Carr. It was a prosperous and eventful reign. Twenty-five took upon herself the duties that fell to her lot, and she labored steadily throughout the term, save at Christmas when she returned home for a short season. And in the spring time, she won in basket-ball for the second time; and she went about her work with a light heart. But suddenly it was vacation.

When the month of September came, Twenty-five was assembled again, with one Nelle Morton as leader, and she was a leader of great courage and valor. In this year, there was held also a contest in hockey, and when Twenty-five won there was much merry-making. And at the Easter time, in the latter part of the term, a mighty reception was prepared and it gave unto Twenty-five and Twenty-four a merry countenance.

When it was near the parting time, after the year's work was over, Twenty-four did bestow upon Twenty-five their caps and gowns, and it was made known unto them, what would be expected of them in the coming year; and they bade farewell and departed.

In the fall, thirty-two damsels returned and these were called Seniors. A new dignity of manner and bearing was manifested by them. And the same Nelle Morton was leader, for she had labored diligently, and performed her duties well in the preceding year. It was with great joy that Twenty-five bore away the hockey championship. And they continued steadfast in their labors until the holiday season, and it was with sorrow that one member was given in matrimony.

The spring time brought new trials and tribulations and with them new joys. It was with sorrow that Twenty-five approached the time that their ways should be parted from each other. They are now crossing the threshold of life, with resolute hearts, in which the sadness of farewell and hopes for the future are mingled. They are striving in all things to be worthy of their beloved alma mater.

Senior Class Prophecy

O let me from my high observatory
Tell each of your fate in song or story,
By all the arts and wiles I can contrive,
To view the stars in their ascension rise.

This clear bright star must for Amanda be;
It tells that she will sail around the sea
If she should ever be within the wake
Of that fair "stranger" found with wedding cake.

Helena's star also is bright and clear,
And through the maze she'll sail without fear.
For who is there who would not love to be
That famous artist known o'er land and sea.

Gazing on the diadem of stars
Grace Browns, I see, arising from afar.
Tho' crosses many Grace will have to bear
In that far land, yet "he" her cross will share.

Margaret Dowdle a pastor's wife shall be,
For this, her star, doth say it verily.
Demure tho' she, her influence will be seen
Tho' her good deeds she'd hide behind a screen.

Mildred shall athletic champion be
Her career was started at dear old F. M. C.
I see by her star great honors she will hold,
In Europe and America her wondrous feats are told.

I see on yon hoary mountain grey with age,
A tiny schoolhouse and a teacherage.
And Avis Fountain in this mission school,
Expounds the Scriptures and the Golden Rule.

O, Frank, to me you are a curious riddle
With your wondrous powers o'er your animated fiddle.
With this, your art and instrument you'll see You'll win more friends than you would think could be.

Why are you so quiet, Annabel?
If you but knew just what your star doth tell
You would talk more than any in your class.
I'll tell you not what it is; I'll let you guess.

Grace Goodman's star doth say that she will be
A concert pianist as expected, see?
She sways the crowd with varied tones she plays

From "Yankee Doodle, Keep It Up" to drowsy Indian lays.

When Margaret's work in the Y. W. C. A.
She takes up for good, we'll all look out;
She will lead them all, don't tell us nay.
Of her bright career there'll be no doubt.

Who'd think, with the sense that Mary Kate had She'd have "thrown herself away" on a simple "Farmer Lad"?

And now she feeds the chickens and pets the pigs and cow
And loves it all, her star doth say, and do you wonder how?

Yes, Willie Alma, I know your old dry wit
Will lead you to drawing caricatures yet,
You will point all Political weaknesses out
Then be slapped on the back and be called a good scout.

Instead of a poet which her classmates thought she'd be
Lucile has started as a journalist, I see.
Will she keep on? Her star says not, I fear,
But who she'll be—I cannot tell it here.

Ora Jones was destined long to be
A chiropractor, and it fits her to a T.
She is able by her many rubs and knocks
To cure all ills—and the pain up and stops.

Lovey, here surely is what says your star:
You'll brighten the corner wherever you are.
And yet before you are twenty and eight
You'll settle securely in some pastorate.

Claudia's star turned its course in '25
And since that time, has she had cause to sigh?
For tho' she always seems quite happy, it is true
How can she be so happy when she is always
"Blue"?

Nelle, it just must be that your beautiful eyes
Will win some lawyer—and you will make pies.
And this will be your life-long fight;
To supply a healthy appetite.

Bess Monroe will take you by surprise
For she has proven to be very wise.
A teacher dear she is—and do you know
She is the one we thought would "sling the dough."

Florabel could cook so well that she
A domestic science teacher thought she'd like to be,
Her star did teach that this course she should take
And now she's demonstrator in the well-known county Wake.

Mary McBryde:
On a camel's hump you'll ride
With A. Campbell at your side;
And Campbell's soup you'll eat, I bet,
And smoke a Camel cigarette!

Louise McCallum whose voice is rich and deep
Is climbing up the hill of fame—tho' it is often steep,
And soon she will be teaching Galli-Curci
how to sing
Or Galli-Curci then will have to drop out of the ring.
With all your knowledge, Virginia "pet"

You'll be a darling farmerette.
You'll plow the corn and hoe it too—
Or do just what you have to do.

"Hands up," you'll hear a sonorous voice say,
And looking up you'll see Charlotte Mac-Murray.
On her coat a policeman's badge is spied
And an ugly pistol a-hanging at her side.

As business manager of some corporation
"Couch" may be seen in this great nation.
Her star doth say it and I know it's true
For that thing "Couch" could always do.

Polly McKinnon shall a dressmaker be
And sew ribbons and laces and embroidery.
She'll make gowns for queens and ladies,
know;
And all who'd learn this art must to Mc-Kinnon go.

Chris McPhaul we find clad in uniform,
A nurse of high distinction, she can weather
any storm.
She is one who ne'er gives up because a thing
is hard,
And so wherever Christine goes, she plays
the winning card.

Julia Porter "parle Française si bien,"
Her star doth say, "Une maitresse Français
ou rien."
So as professor of "Français" this '25 you'll see
Has now succeeded Mademoiselle Brun at
F. M. C.

Ruth Rhodes with her wonderful pill-case in hand
Can always be seen where she's in demand.
Her star set her course as doctor fine
And she follows that course as she speeds
in line.

A kindergarten teacher 'of America's best
Shall Gonia be, her star gives no jest,
So she's given her life to children small,
And now she's training them in winter,
spring, and fall.

Scott-Sallie is destined to "lisp in numbers" so
She needs must be a poet—and we'll be glad to know
That we can say with pride as we her poems
read
"Why she's a '25, I was with her at F. M. C."

But Miriam's fate I cannot here relate
For it is so uncertain—and this one thing
I'd hate
To have my "reputation" as prophet all undone
So I am simply leaving that star of Miriam's
'lone.

MIRIAM G. SMITH, Prophet.

Last Will and Testament

E, the members of the Senior Class of 1925 of Flora Macdonald College, finding ourselves, after a four-year period of remodeling, in a great state of improvement, stamped by various seals of honor, strength, and daring, and even now quite conscious that we ourselves and not the faculty are our worst enemies; understanding that our many hours of trial with toil and much woe were means whereby we might become models for the sages, do on this day in the year of Our Lord one thousand, nine hundred and twenty-five publish a list of our worldly goods—our last will and testament—before our exit into the dazzling glare of the coming life of liberty and pursuit of happiness, to show our love and appreciation to our alma mater, faculty, and Senior class.

ITEM I

To the College we leave our wings which we acquired at the end of a four-year period of sainted existence that the College might soar on these above the mediocrity of a swampy Paradise to win exalted fame on a less muddy field and drier Elysium.

ITEM II

To the faculty we will our high hopes and harmless aspirations that they might toil on through life with less discouragement.

ITEM III

1. I, Katharine McMillan, leave my picture of Miss Haile to Virginia Ashlin, who though an ardent admirer was never favored with such a gift from that fair lady.
2. I, Virginia Frank, will my timidity and bashful ways to Nelle Britt.
3. I, Charlotte McMurray, will to Amy Robinson my ability to impersonate school teachers, that she may in days to come profit by my lessons and find life less difficult to battle with.
4. I, Sallie Scott, will my interpretive sense of the Highland Fling to Martha Layton.
5. I, Mildred De Lorme, leave my ability to antagonize to Lucile Tate, who in her ingeniousness is not yet practical in this art.
6. I, Nelle Morton, will to Sara Frances Marshall my artistic temperament, that she in this acquisition might console herself that since in an artist's mood there is variety—and variety, you know, is the spice of life.
7. I, Lucille Johnson, will my studious ways and collegiate expression to Linda Cook.
8. I, Louise McCallum, will my "blushes" to Snowe Bradley.
9. I, Annabel Floyd, will my slit pants used in "David Copperfield" to Anne Marye Owen, hoping that they might spur her on further in her dramatic efforts.

10. I, Virginia McCutchen, will my "manly serve" in tennis to Ruby Hargrave.
11. I, Mary McBryde, will to Effie Evans my "Philosophy of Love," hoping that it might advise her in her hushed romances.
12. I, Claudia Maynard, will to Ruth Street my unruffled manner and passive attitude to the world in general.
13. I, Christine McPhaul, will my pug nose to Eleanor Herring that it might serve her as a defensive and "keep out" from outward intrusion .
14. I, Mary Kate Horton, will my supreme interest in History class to one less ambitious, Mary Cook.
15. I, Avis Fountain, will to Maria Maness my air of insouciance, hoping that it might help her meet the modern, sophisticated F. M. C. girl of to-day on the same ground.
16. I, Ruth Rhodes, will my jolly good nature and medical aspirations to Martha Layton.
17. I, Polly McKinnon, will my absorbing interest of anything biological, especially instructors of such, to Bessie Fletcher.
18. I, Margaret Hansel, will my horn-rimmed spectacles to Elizabeth Baker, that they might serve her as faithfully as they have me.
19. I, Amanda Brown, will to Lima Paige Smith my one-third part of my sleeping compartment.
20. I, Julia Porter, will my fiery temper and restless ways to Elizabeth Hughes.
21. I, Willie Alma Henderson, will to Elizabeth Russell my costume and part in "Alkestis."
22. I, Bess Monroe, will to Annie Beane my wide knowledge of Education 3 and 6, and 4 and 8.
23. I, Gonia Scott, will my winning opinions on the Philippine question to the next debater.
24. I, Florabel McGoogan, leave my "baby stare" to Caroline Lee Young.
25. I, Mary Love, will my A+ in Spanish to Louise Carson.
26. I, Grace Brown, will my business head to the next manager of the Senior Tea Room.
27. I, Ora Jones, will my skill in broad jumping to Agnes McCleod.
28. I, Margaret Dowdle, will my much-stuffed impersonation of a Spanish senora to Nelle Britt.
29. I, Miriam Smith, will to Mary Linda Vardell my surgical instruments: one knife and twelve pins acquired in Sophomore year with which I carved one frog and pinned down one worm.
30. I, Grace Goodman, will my "Alkestian golden tresses" to Agnes McCleod.
31. I, Alice Barr, will my interest in Davidson College to Caroline Lee Young.

POEM

Daughters of Twenty-five, as with bowed heads
And hearts half filled with sorrow, and yet glad,
We hold our last sweet rendezvous, and bid
Farewell to the brief home of our adoption,
Where learning we have loved, and loving learned;
What votive off'ring shall we bring to heap
Upon her shrine, what tribute bring we now
In token of a never-dying love?
Shall it be gold in quantities unnamed
That she more stately mansions here may build?
Or shall it be the fame of Twenty-five
To spur our comrades to a higher goal?
Nay, gold and fame alike do quickly perish.
Gold is a bait where foolish fingers trip;
Material wealth the heart-beat cannot measure;
The bubble reputation soon will break
Have we no rarer gift to offer, then—
Some pledge with which to strengthen memories bonds?
O, Alma Mater, thou to us hast given
A light to guide our future devious ways,
The truth to make the road more beautiful,
And love to make the rougher places smooth.
We pledge ourselves to bear the torch on high.
Truth, light, and love, and service all shall be Ingrained ever in the Red and White!
O, daughters true of Twenty-five! the world
Lies at your feet, and your eternity
Is resting in your hands. The only way
To fail not is to purpose to succeed.
To victory! remembering always these—
Truth, service, light, and love; lest ye break faith,
Sisters of Twenty-five!

Class History

It has long been a problem with historians when recording the deeds of brave warriors, the reigns of mighty kings, or critical periods in a nation's life, to know just what to include and what, by reason of limited time and space must be left out. Thus, this brief summary is by no means an adequate representation of the many virtues and accomplishments of the Class of '26 but merely a few facts from its life history.

In the fall of nineteen-twenty-two, sixty-five fair maidens caught their first glimpse of the pillared gates and ivy-covered walls of Flora Macdonald. To describe their various feelings would be impossible, so long and deep are the thoughts of youth, yet one might venture to say that even the most sophisticated was quite duly and properly impressed. True to type, they were sufficiently young and inexperienced, and submissive to satisfy even a Sophomore's insatiable desire for acknowledged superiority. Fulfilling destiny, they likewise suffered pangs of homesickness on occasions. But for the most part their days were too full for repining. There were new things to see, new acquaintances to make, and new works to constantly demand their attention. Filled with enthusiasm and determination, the Freshmen soon gained recognition in the College, first as interesting personalities, then as an organized unit. With the election of officers and the selection of a motto, the members of Twenty-six early made evident their intentions to uphold the best traditions of the school. In time they made their influence felt more widely by the way in which they entered into all the activities of College life. And so the year sped on, bringing in its wake Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter holidays and finally the never-to-be-forgotten "first" commencement.

Back on the campus the following September, they appeared as Sophomores prepared to assimilate the unappreciative Freshmen and instill into them some of the spirit they had received the year before. Their number was only thirty-four as contrasted with almost twice that number at the beginning of their career, but they rallied together at the opening of College with all the "old pep." Hockey and basket-ball in succession, loomed upon the horizon and were promptly attacked with rare vigor, ending in a close race for the championship.

History repeats itself, but it does more: it shows changes and further development. One of the outstanding features of the year nineteen-twenty-three was College Day, destined to be celebrated as an annual event. On that memorable day, colors, as well as excitement, ran high from dawn till dark. The Sophomores came off proud victors in the contest that night, winning the coveted banner for the best original college song. The same year marked a crisis in the life of the institution when it was rated an "A" college.

Another era has dawned and they are now Juniors, extremely proud of their newly-acquired "little sisters" and of the splendid work that they are already doing. There are a few additions and several losses to the class, but its loyalty remains unchanged. Sensible of the responsibility which rests upon them, the Juniors are more than ever before taking an active part in supporting the standards of the school. They are represented in athletics, in scholarship, in debating, and in social affairs. This is the second year in which they have won the cup in an indoor track meet and four members of the varsity hockey team are members of the Class of '26. They may well be confident that the future will reward the labors of a class that so typifies the high ideals of her alma mater.

ANNE MARYE OWEN, Historian.

THE PLEDGE OF TWENTY-SIX

Three years have passed on wings now swift now slow,
Three busy years of work—of smiles and tears,
Since first our many hearts began to know
The fellowship of common hopes and fears.
And as the year of Six and Twenty nears,
The last short year we shall together spend,
Each one of us a low clear summons hears,
A call to nobler effort, to attend
To those things that to character will beauty lend.

For one year more we bear the Blue and Grey
To victory or hon'rab! defeat,
Before we go each one her different way
In life's stern conflict all rebuffs to meet
With courage strong. Each loyal heart shall beat
In quick response to Six and Twenty's call;
As Seniors in this well beloved seat
Of wisdom we will see that ne'er shall fall
Her standard high, for Twenty-six upholds it one and all.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Sophomore Class History

IN September the twelfth, 1923, Flora Macdonald took on its usual verdant look. The "Fresh" had arrived. We were as green as any Freshmen had ever been since the world began. Many and unusual were the things we did. One green soul called a meeting of the class, without consulting anybody, about two weeks after school started. Needless to say, she was properly chastised and has been meek and humble since that day.

Our greenness gradually wore off and our true-blue colors appeared. These stood for loyalty, class spirit and, most of all, pep. We were known as the "peppiest" class in College. On College Day our colors floated triumphantly from the dome, higher than any on the campus. "Chewing gum" is the magic word that brings back jaw-aching memories of the unforgettable day. Then, that night, our class song, pep song, and college song received honorable mention and have been used on all occasions since then.

The "Fresh" won the basket-ball championship that spring due to our splendid team and admirable teamwork. We are proud possessors of the blue and white basket-ball banner and hope to keep it the whole four years.

September, 1924, marked the beginning of an auspicious year for us. Some of our number did not return, but those who did, came back with the determination to keep up the standard of '27. We are still the "peppiest" class and are looking forward to three more years at F. M. C.

Clubs and Organizations

We earnestly desire that every girl in our school join us in carrying on the world-wide work that is expressed in the purpose of the Young Woman's Christian Association, which strives to make consistent Christian living and the ideals of earnestness, happiness, love, and service the aim of every Flora Macdonald girl. An aim, so simple in the statement, yet how profound in meaning!

"Purer yet and purer
I would be in mind
Dearer yet and dearer
Every duty find;
Hoping still, and trusting
God without a fear,
Patiently believing
He will make all clear.

"Swifter yet and swifter
Ever onward run,
Firmer yet and firmer
Step as I go on.
Oft' these earnest longings
Swell within my breast:
Yet their inner meaning
Ne'er can be expressed."

Now first on the roll you'll see
 The Long twins or otherwise Mary and Willie Lee.
 They don't look alike, and yet I guess they do,
 For either will answer in class 'tis true.

Next in the Sandlins we'll find the resemblance
 And the names Bessie and Bertha we'll hold in remembrance.
 They're more alike than any other two;
 Bertha a bit larger but features the same hue.

The McKenzies are next as athletes famed.
 Their stay here was short before they were named,
 For many a ball on its way has been sent
 While Estelle or Idelle little energy spent.

So thus our club, tho' it may seem small,
 It never affects our pleasure at all.
 And may the fun ne'er cease and the joy herein
 That so often we have found in being a twin.

Song Hits

POPULAR music, like the poor, is always with us. New song hits are, seemingly, perpetrated daily and still they are all alike. O tempores! O mores! what an appalling lack of originality is depicted thusly! Mary, who was such a pal, still insists on inquiring what'll she do when her buddy whom she misses is soon forgetting her. That's just like her! She certainly ought to know by this time, that when she's gone he won't forget. Instead he will afflict the rest of humanity with so-called music in which he implores her to let him call her sweetheart, and informs his wonderful one of how his arms ache to hold her.

I'm inclined to believe that there are really only two lovers in the world of popular music and if we could just succeed in uniting this love-sick couple in the bonds of matrimony, we might have a little peace. Oh, the crimes he has committed in her honor under assumed names! Anthems to "Margie," "Angel Child," "Baby Blue Eyes," "Rose of the Rio Grande," "Dardenella," et cetera—but they can't fool me. I know it's the same old girl, all the time. And the fun that sentimental pair have had—drifting down the current, out on the back porch—it's all the same to them. All the same, they will have quarrels! She takes his picture out of its frame on the average of at least two or three times in a season, while he demands as to "How come she does him as she does, does, does?" But there's no use in hoping that they will become permanently estranged; they've done it too often before and have come back the very next week (with words to the effect that they'd give all world for just one caress), for us to cherish any illusions along that line.

They have become an institution, I'm afraid; they will still be drifting back to dreamland when they are too feeble to do anything more than drift, and still fully as romantic as they are rheumatic. Or perhaps they are immortal and lived generations ago as Ben Bolt and Sweet Alice. It may be that the "Red Hot Mamma" of to-day was Annie Laurie or sweet Genevieve of yesterday; who knows?

MARTHA MURRAY.

ECHOES OF THE EVENTIDE

Evening breezes softly calling, evening shadows gently falling,
O'er the distant hilltop yonder come the last rays of the sun,
And its tints of red and yellow making all the heavens mellow
Tell the earth that night is dawning, tell the laborer work is done.
Trees majestically are swaying, and with south winds fondly playing
And their branches bend in splendor to that light fantastic touch;
Birds and bees are seeking cover, and the lamb has sought its mother,
And now resting in the clover they dream on in twilight's hush.
Far into the Pasture wending comes the brook song, softly blending
With the whippoorwill that's crying, and the doves' departing lay;
In the orchestra comes stealing, now and then a voice revealing
That the tree frog's left his cover, where he's slept throughout the day.
And to make the scene more tender, now in day's departing splendor
Comes the chirping of the cricket, calling from the steep hillside,
And enchantment that is roaming, in the evening through the gloaming
Is heard calling far and wide, Echoes of the Eventide.

ERLE SMITH.

AN APRIL NIGHT

Wistaria fall in cascades 'cross the windows of my room,
The still night air is laden with the heavy, rare perfume;
Wild dogwood in the wood below is all a misty white,
The blossoms glowing palely through the mystic April night.

The moon has come up softly, flooding, silvering the sky,
And the whole world is sleeping save one mocking-bird nearby;
He has his song, and I my thoughts, and each are varied things—
"Of ships and shoes and sealing wax, of cabbages and kings."

M. L. V., '26.

Doodle-Bugs

Y early infancy was spent in South Carolina at the foothills which mark the beginning of the long range of North Carolina mountains. The soil was for the most part rocky and hard clay. But under the edges of the houses and in the barn there were lovely sandy places where dwelt many doodle-bugs.

Now, if you would like to know the scientific name for this insect, I can oblige you, for it is Neuroptera-Siabidas; but that name never has alarmed me for I fell a victim to the doodle-bug's charms long ere I had heard of science, least of all biological, botanical, or zoological sur-names. These doodle-bugs were the delight of my childish heart. They made the most fascinating round cone-shaped holes for their houses and at the apex of this cone they spent their time. If one desired to see them, the thing to do was to take a little stick and stir around in the hole chanting in the meantime. "Doodle, Doodle, your house is on fire!" This brought the anxious doodle out at once—to see if his sand pile was burning down, supposedly or he may have appeared to see who it was that was making the fiendish noise. Whatever the reason, he appeared, in all his armoured glory. He was a fierce little creature with ferocious claws and dusty scales that made up his protective covering. One could almost imagine a hungry glare in his eye although I was never sure that he had that glare, or an eye either, for that matter.

My brother and I were both doodle enthusiasts. We would come in every afternoon to our baths, hoarse in voice from much calling "Doodle, doodle," and dusty of face from stooping over the doodle-holes and clambering under the house. Since brother loved and admired doodles, I was sure they were quite all right, for anything he did was perfect in my eyes. Every day we continued our pursuit of the doodles and were happy as two kings. Then came the calamity.

For three play-times running, I hunted doodles alone. Brother did not appear. I went to the barn, I went to the bee-hives, I went down the alley and even ventured across the asphalt street to the City Park, but no brother! Where could he be? I felt neglected and I knew the doodles missed him. Then he appeared and I showed him an intriguing doodle-hole with an enticing "Come on, Brother, let's doodle this 'un out!" He assented with a lackadaisical manner and stirred for a few minutes while I shouted the prescribed formula. No doodle appeared and a fear clutched my heart that Brother would become discouraged and leave me again. So I shouted louder and louder but no doodle. Finally, the worst happened. Brother threw down his twig and said, "Hang ole dingbusted doodles anyway!"

I was deeply impressed by his using "dingbusted." What a lovely word! I would use it at the next opportunity, but then, I remembered my "the deuce" of the last week and decided that "dingbusted" and "the deuce" were in the same category and would deserve the same punishment so I put away all thoughts of using it, but don't ever think I forgot it. I didn't, much to my sorrow, but that is another tale.

Brother had transferred his affections elsewhere and I was deeply grieved. Doodles were just the most amusing things I could imagine and why should one want to change? He walked away from me whistling most nonchalantly, but I knew he was watching me out of the corner of his eye. So I sat just as quietly, wrinkling my dusty little nose over the doodle-bug's house and stirring mightily with my stick. But I watched him and saw him go into the side yard behind a low stone where we children weren't allowed to play, because Mother's flower garden started there.

My eyes just popped; saying "dingbusted" and going into the flower garden in the same afternoon! This was too much; he was certainly reckless. I crept to the little stone wall and looked over. Words cannot describe my feelings at the sight! Suffice it to say that I was perfectly furious. To think that he had come to this when I had been trying so hard to amuse him with doodles. Guess what he was doing! Feeding crumbs to ants! Ants, nothing but ole common red ants, common as dirt, when one could hunt for doodles! I was undone.

So this was where he was spending his time! So this was the meaning of the preoccupied air, the nonchalant whistling and hiding from me! I was wildly furious and blindly jealous of the ants. He was watching about twenty ants pushing and pulling on a little crumb of bread. Pooh! why my doodle could eat up forty of those ole ants—why my doodle lived off ants—he ate 'em for breakfast, dinner, and supper—why, my doodle . . .

My doodle did eat ants! Presto! the idea was formulated and I in a minute had prepared a plan whereby every ant in existence should be wiped out instantaneously! Then we'd see where brother and his ants would be! Consequently, I set to work and caught every doodle in a radius of five houses. I put on a doodle campaign and paid a pin for every five doodles brought to me by neighbor's children (Mother complained for a week how her pins were disappearing). I worked early and late, collecting doodles and placing them in a tin box full of sand. All this unbeknownst to my brother. He continued in all complacent innocence to pursue his own favorite sport feeding ants.

Then the great day came. I had every doodle that I could lay my hands on and had about five hundred in all. They just swarmed in my sand-filled box and filled my vengeful heart with joy. I rose early with a singing heart before Brother had stopped dreaming and I stole out quietly into the yard. During my campaign I had located every ant hole in the whole of our yard, so to each of these I sped and here deposited about thirty doodles in a pile of sandy dust brought from the barn. I satisfied myself that each doodle colony was building homes and preparing for the day's feast before I left. After I had visited each one, I returned to the house, washed my hands and was innocently feeding buck-shot to a toad frog when Brother appeared for our morning's usual play.

As always of late, he started away to the side yard, but I called him back to notice the funny noise that the frog made when he jumped, "Kerplunk!" just like that. I beguiled him for a half-hour with a game invented on the spur of the moment called "Kerplunk!" in which we were both frogs and jumped with a wild shout of "Kerplunk!" at each jump. Soon I let him go for I was sure by this time the doodles had gotten in their deadly work. I waited for a few minutes after Brother repaired to the side yard but he did not come back. So I went to our favorite hunting grounds under the back-steps and sat me down to possess my soul with patience.

My efforts were soon rewarded. In a few minutes, Brother crawled in under the steps, flushed of face for he had been running frantically from one ant hole to another. The ants were all gone and I knew it and was glad. The doodles had eaten them.

"Sister," said Brother tentatively, "Did you ever play any with ants?"

"Uh-huh," "don' like 'em! Ruther play with doodles."

"Guess I had too," said Brother and I held my breath, "You go get a stick and we'll hunt for 'em a while."

I flew to do his bidding with a singing heart and returned out of breath with two lovely smooth sticks. We set to work and you know, we stirred and we stirred but we didn't find a doodle! We hunted in the barn and under the bee-hives. But the doodles were gone! I hadn't thought of this in my wild campaign—the doodles had eaten the ants up but where were the doodles! The chickens ate them.

The ants were gone and Brother was mine but what was I to entertain him with! I thought tearfully of how we might have played so gaily with the ants, together, but now they were gone and the doodles were gone and the toad had "Kerplunked" away. So I just said: "The deuce! Dingbust it!" and marched right into the house on my two tired little legs and told Mother all about the pins and the doodles and the ants and the frog and—I cried. And then guess what! She took me to the attic and showed me a basket of kittens. And I forgot all about the doodles until this very day.

THE ATHLETIC BOARD

The Athletic Association

The purpose of the Flora Macdonald Athletic Association is to encourage good sportsmanship and fair play, not only on the athletic field, but in the class work, in the honor system, and other phases of College life; also to prepare the girls physically, mentally, and morally for their future work.

As an aid to this purpose there is selected a varsity team from each sport, hockey, basket-ball, tennis, and track. These are merely honorary teams. The girls are selected not only for their playing ability but for their standing in classes, keeping rules, and general good sportsmanship.

This year much constructive work has been attempted. Tireless efforts have been made in working over the old constitution and reorganizing the Association on the Y. W. C. A. plans: that is, various committees have been organized, as financial, publicity, upkeep of equipment, upkeep of grounds, etc., with the chairman of each on the Athletic Board, the executive part of the Association.

The Point System

To prevent a small group of students from holding all the student offices, a point system has been adopted.

No student can hold offices amounting to more than ten points in one College year.

The point system is under the direction of a Student Recorder of Points.

It is the duty of the Student Recorder of Points to keep in touch with all elections, and to see that no student carries more than the allowed number of points.

The Day's Schedule

Dead silence save for the unheeded clang
of the rising bell.

Five-minute Bell! Excited scrambling out of bed and frantic attempts at robing.

Breakfast Bell! A rush for the dining-room, only to find . . . probably eggs. At 7:35 comes the march of the late brigade, tying sashes, pinning collars, etc.

Quiet Hour.

Walking Period: Devoted to pursuit of health, and by some to "crush strolls."

Chapel.

School: Mighty and desperate efforts to show the faculty how much knowledge we have in our brains.

Mail Call, followed by lunch—a blessed oasis in the midst of a weary land.

Work again—with intermittent naps.

Gym: Awful and ridiculous contortions of the body; prospects of rheumatic-feeling limbs to-morrow. Then a blessed free afternoon!

Dinner—enough said—a fitting end to a hectic day.

After three long hours devoted to study and taking baths—light bell: A scramble to clear off the beds, whispering, giggles, silence; three hundred sleeping beauties.

Jokes

Annie Barr: "Mean trick Erle and Sallie played on Ruth Rhodes."

Clara Sawyer: "How's that?"

Annie Barr: "Pinned a note on her back, 'Detour here'."

Freshman: "Huh?"

Sophomore: "What?"

Junior: "I didn't get the question."

Senior: "Pardon me, I did not comprehend the nature of the interrogation."

"Little grains of greenness,
Little grains of sass:
Little grains of dumbness,
Compose the Freshman class."

Miss Brown (to French class): "Please remember, girls that the thing that holds is masculine, and thing to be held is feminine."

M. L. Johnson: "I passed Shakespeare to-day."

H. Butler: "Did he speak?"

COLLEGE PROVERBS

"Never do to-day, what your roommate can do to-morrow."

"Flunk and the world flunks with you; pass and you pass alone."

"Absence makes the marks grow rounder."

"Papa, what are cosmetics?"

"Cosmetics, my son, are peach preserves."

"The woodpecker lit on a Freshman's head,
And settled down to peck,
He pecked away for half a day,
And then he broke his neck."

Mrs. Glenn: "Sallie, what is a vacuum?"

Sallie Scott (slowly): "Well, I have it in my head, but I just can't say it."

E. Hartman: "What is a grass widow?"

M. Murray: "The wife of a dead vegetarian."

LA TRAGEDIE FRANCAISE

"Fermez, fermez vos livres."	"Tres triste, tres triste, prenez la garde,"
I'd hear it in my sleep;	The fatal words I knew ere spoken,
"Commencez la dialogue,"	"Je crains que vous ne passiez pas,"
Oh it most makes me weep!	My poor heart would be broken.
"Avez-vous vos papiers?"	"Vous-aurez un examen,"
A chill creeps up my spine.	My maitresse's voice I hear.
"Donnez-moi votre excuse,"	"Etudiez, etudiez,"
Oh, I've forgotten mine!	Alas, my heart is stopped from fear.
	Triste! Fini!

Miss Ellerbe: "Eleanor, take this sentence: 'Take the cow out of the lot.'
What mood?"

Eleanor Kornegay: "The cow."

— B² —

Two lovers went out walking
A frustum and a lunc.
As they were walking, they were talking
Of the shining circle moon.

The frustum then was shooting
His one and only line,
The one that he'd been shooting
To each girl in her time.

The lunc then turned upon him,
"I know that you're not square,
And I don't love you, I don't love you,
Because you are not fair."

Her hand grasped the nearest log,
And soon he realized
That his perpendicularity
Was horizontalized.

Mrs. Glenn: "We are held on the earth by the law of gravity."
"Couch": "Well, how did we stay on before the law was passed?"

Mildred Harris (studying English): "A word ending in 'ous' means
'full of'."

Alice Taylor: "Does 'pious' mean full of pie?"

IN setting the type, printing, and binding this book, our object was not to see how quickly and cheaply we could produce the publication, but how well it could be done.

Our whole aim in this, as in all our work, is to give the greatest attention to all the details, and produce printing that will be a credit to the institutions from which the publications are issued. Our books will be just as good in the many years to come, when an annual is of greatest value, as they are to-day.
